

JOIN THE BLACK CROWN PROJECT

The Widsith Institute is currently recruiting able-minded humans for its important BLACK CROWN project.

The Institute is a charitable organisation of shady provenance. Its diverse staff of scholars, editors and fieldworkers are managed through the application of bespoke diseases. These diseases will facilitate the task of digitising the Institute's archival documents.

Who is the Eremit? What happened to the town of LOSS? The Institute needs clerks to help uncover the truth.

Report to www.blackcrownproject.com for your induction

Supported and funded by Random House, Black Crown is powered by Failbetter Games' Storynexus platform, with bespoke functionality created for the Black Crown project. Additional features developed by Popleaf. Created and written by a prodigiously talented debut author, whose identity is being kept under wraps until the launch in May.

Readers may sign up to the Project for free using their email address, Facebook or Twitter accounts. The entire project will be free-to-play, with opportunities for eager users to make micropayments to unlock story strands, expedite the narrative and acquire items and status within the world.

Download the institute's latest document, LINCOLN'S BEDSHEET, from your local ebook retailer.

For any enquiries please email September Withers at s.withers@transworld-publishers.co.uk

Prepare for a grim new era in digital publishing.